

Sensory magic for curious minds

See, hear, touch, smell, and taste the world in new ways with playful, hands-on sensory fun that sparks curiosity at every turn.

Let's keep children safe.

Always ensure your child is carefully supervised during physical activities

Ignite sensory curiosity and language development by exploring the world with all five senses.

Tick the star when you've completed the activity.

Texture Treasure Hunt

- Find things that feel rough, smooth, soft, bumpy.
- Talk about each discovery.

Make Scented Playdough

- Add herbs, spices, or essential oils and describe the smells together.

Stick sounds

- Explore the different sounds a stick makes banged on your patio, lawn, fence and more!

Create a Taste Test

- Try safe foods with contrasting flavors (sweet, sour, salty) and talk about reactions.

Use Feely Bags

- Hide objects inside and guess what's inside by touch alone.

Did you know?

Sensory experiences create connections in the brain, forming the foundation for future learning.

